Jooxter announces the acquisition of Wx Solutions, a french leader in IoT and workplace occupancy analysis.

Jooxter, a French startup specializing in Workplace Management, today announces the acquisition of Wx Solutions, the French leader in workplace occupancy measurement and analysis, a Sodexo's Group entity.

This operation will create a market leader in workplace management solutions. The new entity created will enable companies to better manage their premises, optimize their energy consumption, and adjust their spaces according to their employees' real needs.

By analyzing office occupancy patterns in detail, Jooxter will be able to offer tailored solutions to improve employee efficiency and productivity, especially by promoting collaborative work at the office. This also allows companies to reduce costs related to the workplace and optimize their occupancy.

In a context of widespread hybrid work, where employees work remotely and on site, it is crucial to have effective tools to manage the workplace. The combination of offers makes it possible to propose a more complete and integrated solution to help companies commit to more sobriety and engage in a sustainable approach to their real estate footprint.

"I am delighted to welcome the Wx Solutions teams to Jooxter. Jooxter has always had a strong reputation in the occupancy intelligence market. This acquisition allows us to accelerate our development by offering a broader range of services, based on Wx Solutions' expertise in IoT and analytics. This acquisition creates a market leader and strengthens our international presence," said Fabien Girerd, CEO of Jooxter.

"We are very happy to give Wx Solutions the means to accelerate its development through this operation with Jooxter, a recognized player in the WorkTech world. After having strongly contributed to the development of Wx Solutions over the past 4 years, particularly its internationalization and transition to a SaaS model, we are very confident in Jooxter's ability to grow the Wx Solutions teams and initiate a new phase of sustainable growth," said Yannick Villar, CEO of Wx Solutions.

Jooxter is integrating all of Wx Solutions' teams to benefit from their expertise and ensure continuity of service for clients and users. In addition, Jooxter and Sodexo have concluded a commercial partnership agreement that will enable Sodexo's clients to benefit from the services and innovations of the new entity.

About Wx Solutions

Wx Solutions was created in 2017 to help companies find the right balance between hybrid work and real estate performance, and to improve the employee work experience.
